Mission Emphasis Week Features Two Speakers

Mission Emphasis Week will be observed on the campus next week. Sponsored by Mission Fellowship, the program will consist of convocations and chapel services centered around the topic of missions.

The Rev. Herbert Hannemann, a missionary of the American Lutheran Church currently on leave from his mission work in New Guinea, will be the featured speaker at chapel services Monday and Tuesday, convo on Tuesday and the Mission Fellowship meeting at 7:15 Tuesday evening.

A graduate of Wartburg College and Seminary, Pastor Hannemann has served in the New Guinea Mission since 1934, working among the primitive people of the Central Highland there. He recently completed his third term of service in this field.

When the Japanese attempted to invade the Central Highland of New Guinea after having held most of the coastal areas for some time, Missionary Hannemann was ordered to evacuate. After walking some miles over the hills to Bena Bena, he was taken in a military plane to Port Moresby. From there he was taken to Australia in a ship and again from there to San Francisco in another ship, arriving there in March 1943.

The Rev. N. B. Hansen, president of the Board of Foreign Missions for the United Evangelical Lutheran Church, will be the speaker at chapel Wednesday and Thursday evening, convo Thursday and a second Mission Fellowship meeting Thursday evening.

Mission Emphasis Week will conclude with the Friday evening chapel service at which time a movie, "That They May Hear," will be shown. This movie tells how a college student met the challenge of foreign mission work.

First Meet For Group

Members of the Wartburg College Development Committee held their first meeting here last Wednesday. An adequate faculty salary schedule, college tuition costs, expansion of the committee to between thirty and forty members and the program of future meetings were discussed.

Pres. Becker presented the historical background of the college to the group, which met in Fuchs Lounge. The growth of the school from 1945 to 1957 and plans for expansion to 1970 were illustrated on graphs by the Rev. Martin Ackermann, Development director.

The next meeting of the committee is planned for February or March.

Attending the meeting were Louis Schneider, Chicago, Ill.; Gordon Yock, Clara City, Minn.; Raymond Keister, Mason City; Merle Parr, Waterloo; Fred Lentz, Beatrice, Neb.; and Walter Frederick, Garnavillo.

Those present from Waverly were Vern Schield, Harry Hagemann, H. C. Nolting, A. H. Niewohner and Walter Voecks; H. C. Engelbrecht, business manager; Norman Fintel, public relations director; Melvin Kramer, Business Department; the Rev. August Baetke, Sociology Department; Dr. Becker and Pastor Ackermann.

What's Up?

Next Saturday's trumpet will feature a special sports issue, inaugurating the Winter athletic schedules.

Included in this eight-page issue will be complete schedules of "B" squad, varsity basketball and wrestling. There will be features and pictures of the coaches and teams in addition to a wrap-up of the football season and previews of all athletic teams for this winter.

Speech Tourney Planned For TC

Four Wartburg speech students will travel to Iowa Teachers, Cedar Falls, for a speech tourney beginning Friday afternoon and continuing through Saturday afternoon, Nov. 22-23.

These four students will compose two discussion and debate teams: Seniors Iris Heaney and John Werner, sophomores Meredith Stuhmer and Eugene Moll.

All four will participate in discussion groups and debate. Each will take part in extemporaneous speaking with the exception of Iris Heaney, who will participate in oratory.

The debate topic will be the National Collegiate Debate proposition, "Resolved, That compulsory union membership as a condition of employment should be illegal." The discussion topic will be "How can our colleges and universities best meet the increasing demand for higher education?"

At the discussion meeting in Grinnell Nov. 8 and 9, John Werner, senior, tied for 14th place out of 80 participants in discussion and debate.

Regents To Meet Tuesday

Artistic Triumph In Janigro Group

MAESTRO ANTONIO JANIGRO chats following last night's concert.

* * * * * * * * * *

By Harold Kurtz

There may not have been a full house to hear I Solisti di Zagreb when they performed in Knights Gym last night, but the 800 Artist Series patrons who were there were rewarded with an evening of artistic excellence.

Opening with Telemann's Sonata a Quatro in A, the group started slowly, but soon gained the finesse to finish strongly.

Antonio Janigro, leader of the group and cello soloist, continued with J. S. Bach's Cello Concerto in G. Especially noteworthy was the second movement which brought out the deep rich tones of the cello.

Mozart Zestful

Mozart's Divertimento in B flat was the final number of the first half of the program. Typically Mozart, the number was zestful and bright.

High point of the concert was Stefano Passaggio's performance of J. Christian Bach's Violo Concert in C. Minor. The deep tones blended with the orchestral accompaniment to produce a sheer listening delight.

Contemporary music furnished a lighter vein. Fran Lhotka's rhythmic and dissonant Scherzo was a listener's holiday.

Britten Final Work

Concluding number was Benjamin Britten's Simple Symphony. Featuring an interesting interplay of strings and a pizzacato second movement, the work was a definite tongue in cheek composition.

Backstage a group of well-wishers surrounded Janigro. Speaking through an interpreter, he talked on a variety of subjects.

"I was surprised at American appreciation of music. Here everyone has records and gets to know music. And you have many symphonies, too," he noted.

Likes American Audiences

"And American audiences—they're so appreciative. I'm not just using an expression either. They are warm."

Currently on a two and one half-month concert trip, the Solisti are making 40 stops throughout the East, Midwest and South. From here they head southward for Texas.

"Ah music," concluded Janigro. "I have no favorite. As a musician I like it all."

And for the Artist Series goers, they too liked all of the music of I Solisti di Zagreb.

Poor Guy - Married Only Three Months And Already He Has 100 Daughters

By Joan Pape

Imagine a man whose wife has over one hundred daughters. And then add the fact that he's been married for only three months.

Such a description could fit only one man on campus — Dale Kronquist, husband of Mrs. Shirley Kronquist, resident head of Wartburg Hall.

No Trapped Feeling

Although one would expect that living in a women's dormitory would produce a rather trapped, hen-pecked feeling in the heart of any man, his position has not seemed to bother Kronquist at all.

"My work for the last four years was almost exclusively with women," he stated. "I used to be dancing instructor for the Arthur Murray Studios, and all my pupils were women, ages 10 to 76.

Kronquist, a sophomore pre-theological student at Wartburg, further stated that he met Mrs. Kronquist in Boulder, Colo., while she was at the university there. His home is in Estes Park. Besides being a dancing instructor, he was also in the service in Kentucky and Colorado before coming here.

Doesn't Phase Him

He claimed that he hasn't had any unusual or embarrassing experiences due to living in Wartburg Hall as yet. Most of the embarrassment and surprise has come to the girls living there when they first see him at the desk and to people calling in to the dormitory when he answers the phone.

"More than one person has thought he had the wrong number when he heard my male voice say 'Wartburg Hall,'" He added.

People haven't kidded Kronquist about his position too much either, except, as he added, for one thing. "People like to call me 'housefather.'"

Becker Report Heads Agenda

Three objectives that chart the future course of Wartburg College, recommendations for the coming school year and announcement of a job that was refused comprise the report President C. H. Becker will make to the College Board of Regents when it meets here Tuesday.

Becker's recommended objectives are a larger and stronger faculty, a curriculum which will meet the needs of a student body of 1,000-1,200 in the foreseeable future and improved physical facilities, including an adequate library, a chapel-auditorium and a science building.

Becker announced in the report that he has rejected a call

Haefner

to become director of the Lutheran Service Society, Denver, Colo.

He commented, "My first consideration is Wartburg College. I still see many goals and the greatest challenge lies ahead."

To Ask For Bids

Permission to call for bids and let contracts for the new library as soon as plans are drawn up will be requested by the Building Committee and the Regents' Executive Board. Approval of the proposed movement of the trailer court to the north side of the west addition to the campus will also be sought.

Recommendations for next year include a student body numbering 900, faculty additions to the English, Philosophy, Mathematics and Christianity Departments and an increase in faculty salaries. Faculty members at present receive an average of $4,600 a year.

The tripling of the number of teachers holding doctor's degrees in the past 10 years is another consideration. Currently the Wartburg faculty includes eight doctoral candidates, five of whom are in the thesis-writing stage.

Schick Resigning

The Rev. E. A. Schick has resigned his position of college chaplain as of July 1, 1958, but will continue to teach here. No replacement has been named. Dr. Alfred Haefner, professor of Greek, and Norman Fintel, public relations director, have requested a year's leave of absence. Fintel will work on his master's degree.

Social dancing at Wartburg will be considered by the Board upon recommendation by the 1957 convention of the Iowa District, which was held here in Waverly. No action to discontinue dancing is expected, according to President Becker.

The Student Union Council has asked that it be given authority to charge fees for the play equipment in the game room. The Student Memorial Union fee does not pay the entire cost of upkeep.

Out Of The Molds—Stereotypes!

And the stamping dies of this, the college machine, pull apart, and from the jaws of the press emerges another college-educated American. He has undergone a four-year stint of assorted classes, ranging from art appreciation to the intricacies of zoology.

And as he hurries from the ivy-covered tradition-filled walls, clutching in his tight little fist that symbol of social attainment, the college diploma, he joins the vast throng of other stereotyped counterparts.

Now, in his mad rush to scurry from the classroom to the comfortable confines of General Motors, General Electric and General Foods, he can look forward to a life filled with modern appliances, grey flannel suits and maybe even a home in the suburbs.

This is the tragedy of today's college education. With the present-day emphasis on conformity, comfortability and financial security, the individual is being moulded into a mass-produced item — a person in which creative thinking, the appreciation of the fine arts and intellectual values are being forgotten as each one strives for that elusive value known as "success."

This success is a will-o'-the-wisp ideal. But whether it be in business, teaching, the professions or the ministry, there is where the emphasis lies.

It is foolish to say that these things apply universally. Fortunately, they do not. Individualism still remains.

There is left in this world that certain small group of people who have the strength to defy comformity. There are still those who are able to pull themselves out of this engulfing stream.

And it is out of this class that the future of civilization lies. The non-conformist may never win a popularity contest. He may never achieve financial success. He may be laughed at, jeered at, rarely cheered at, but he is the one who will produce the work of art that endures.

It is he who will rise to lead the masses. It is this non-conformist who will defy his environment and seek to better his surroundings and the lot of his fellow man.

This, then, is the challenge for the collegian of today. He can take the path of least resistance and follow the mob. Or he can dare to be different by choosing the rough road — but it is the way which leads up.

It's the student's move — conformity or non-conformity, greatness or smug complacency.

by Bob Loslo

Henry Flessner is getting to be known in Wartburg Players as the terror of the light booth. Last year he talked a girl into trying a cigar for the first time. She left the light booth with the most beautiful shade of green on her face that has ever been seen.

This year, while working on lights for "The Hasty Heart," he talked some innocent freshman girl into finding out what it would be like to try a chaw of chewing tobacco. She went out like a light. But in the true "the show must go on" tradition, she kindly waited until the curtain call to faint.

I got a brilliant idea the other day. For my final column of the school year, I'll publish all the column material that I couldn't put in the column for the last three years. You'd be surprised at all the stuff that reaches my eager little ears that I couldn't possibly mention.

The Luther game comes up this afternoon. Did anybody check on the Knight? At least Wartburg knows where Victor is.

It's a little known fact that several fellows went to Upper Iowa the week of that game to try to steal the Victory Bell. After looking in every conceivable place, they called Doc Dorman and Eb Eischeid and asked them if they knew. They didn't. The boys got some satisfaction, however, when they went to Upper Iowa's pep rally. The cheerleaders thought they were visiting alumni and asked them to say a few words to the loyal fans.

Arlo Bice got quite a surprise the last night of "The Hasty Heart." In the scene where the nurse brings in the mail, Arlo opened his letter and found a real letter from his girl. She had written it that evening and given it to the props crew.

That's similar to the story that Charles Dickson, last year's director, used to tell. He had a scene in which he was supposed to down a shot of straight whiskey. But on the final night, some of the cast members replaced the traditional substitute of cold tea with the real stuff. He had difficulty delivering his next line.

That little grey cat has found a home in the Union. Every time I start to throw him out, I think about how cold it is out there, and I haven't got the heart.

It has occurred to me what an industrious college this would be if everybody charged into everything with the same zeal that Cotta House does with its intramurals. And even though it has been on the bulletin board for the last three weeks since Homecoming, Cotta's propaganda committee should be complimented on its clever public relations material.

And — in the words of my esteemed cohort — "Bye."

STUDY ALWAYS precedes success. For proof, just check a dictionary.

UNFORTUNATELY, a mid-semester grade is too much like Mark Twain's expression concerning the weather: "Everybody talks about it, but nobody does anything about it."

• • • •

TOO BAD the college has such a crowded social calendar that it has to schedule an Artist Series concert during vacation.

Let's Meet Friends

By Kathi

This week presents a variety of things to do and places to meet friends. And this is Mission Emphasis Week. The aim of the week is to stimulate interest in foreign missions and to show where the Wartburg student fits into the mission program of the church. Chapel and convo will both be devoted to this aim. The speakers are the Rev. Herbert Hannemann, missionary on leave from New Guinea, and the Rev. N. B. Hansen, president of the Board of Foreign Missions of the UELC.

• • • •

Monday finds the Young Republicans meeting at 7 p.m. Clarence Christophel will speak on lobbying and his experiences in the state legislature. Christophel is the local representative to the state legislature, if you haven't already guessed. Luther Hall, 207, that is.

• • • •

Women's Athletic Association meets again Wednesday at 7 p.m. All members are asked to sign up for volleyball tournaments by Wednesday.

Also meeting Wednesday is the Passavant Club—7:30 p.m., however, in Grossmann Hall lounge. There will be a movie, too. " Break Dawn" is the title. You take it from there.

There's going to be a big shin-dig at the Irving School next Friday night at 8 when the college combo will loosen up and give out with some jazz. The junior class is really sponsoring a ball.

• • • •

Let's start the week off right by attending worship services and Bible Discussion groups Sunday morning. Leaders and topics for discussion this Sunday are as follows:

Fred Downing — Capital Punishment and the Law

Werner Janssen — Revealing Revelation

Herbert Hafermann — The Unitarian Church

The groups start at 9 a.m. in the Parish Hall, you know.

Attention: Final organizational pictures will be taken on Tuesday night in the gym. Be on time according to the schedule you will find in your convo bulletin (if you got one).

WHIRLED AFFAIRS

We're In A Mess

By Bob Mayer

It is doubtful that ever before in our history has there been so great a moment of crisis to challenge the very meaningfulness of our lives. It is even more doubtful that this nation was ever before so steeped in complacency — so poorly prepared to overcome the loss and repair the damage done.

Mayer

The utter finality of the crisis, and the inevitably of a point of no return seem irrevocable. The time is past when the world held no unconquerable threat to the invincible power of our dynamic strength.

Rather, the time has come when we are no longer in a position to ride on the coattails of a system which rests on the furthering of individual interests.

The core of our problem is so serious that it deserves the gravest consideration of every thinking individual. In a word it spells decay. If it were not so crucial, then certainly we would not persist in denying its existence.

We as a nation are in a laxity so firmly intrenched that it threatens the very destructruction of all those ideals which we claim as ours. This is far more than an external symptom of neglect, it is a disease infecting every vital organ of our power.

We must face the fact that competition for existence has revealed itself as an ugly struggle, and that the key to this struggle is scientific progress.

Realistically, we cannot naively believe that this progress must only directly benefit man, but rather that it must display implications of indestructible might. That you and I will live to see tomorrow depends solely on the effect of our advantage, which in turn relies on scientific developments.

Today we find ourselves in the very embarrassing position of a second to the Soviet Union. In the light of its recent technological triumphs, we see too late that the Soviets have molded the key which we have not yet duplicated.

Effective education is the power which Russia holds over our heads, not the guided missile. Incentives which pronounce that only development of the mind can bring profit has overcome our own distressing lack of scientific emphasis.

Last Thursday evening our President proclaimed his faith in the American people to meet the crisis. He also said that in all gravity we must realize the danger of our eventual defeat. If this is so — remember you are those people.

Knights Finish Season At Luther Today

Jomen Look For 6th Win At Decorah

By Wilbur Flachman

Wartburg Knights' football squad will be at Luther this afternoon to write the last chapter of the 1957 season. Kickoff time is set for 1:30.

Coach Norm Johansen's gridders will be attempting to put a happy ending to the script by knocking the Norsemen of Decorah off the top of the Iowa Conference standings.

Luther, 5-1, needs to beat the Knights, then whip Parsons next Friday for a clear-cut loop title. The Knights also have plenty of incentive to win today's battle.

Knights After Sixth

A victory would be Wartburg's sixth of the season, allowing the Jomen to break the school record of five, set by four Knight teams of the past. A win would also give the locals an edge in the season-long contest for the victory axe, a symbol of the rivalry between the two colleges.

Led by three little All-American performers, Luther has won six contests this season, losing only at Upper Iowa, 23-20. Lew Hoy, 215-pound center, and Bruce Hartman, 265-pound tackle, are listed by Norse coach, Ed Schweitzer, as Big Ten material.

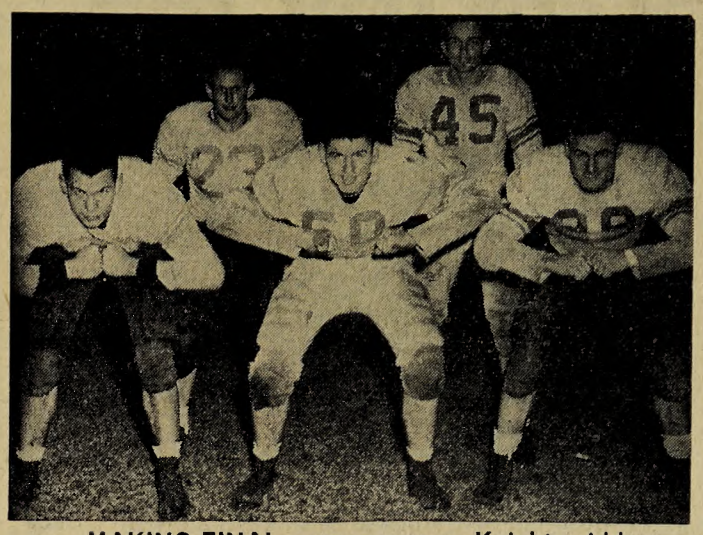
The other outstanding star this season has been Brad Hustad, one of the hardest-running fullbacks that the Iowa Conference has seen in several years. Hustad ranks near the top in rushing for small college players in the United States for 1957.

Fair Physically

Johansen's Knights are in fair physical condition for the season finale. Halfback Dave Jensen, Wartburg's top offensive threat in recent games, is set to go this afternoon after being racked-up in last Saturday's contest. Chuck Nichols, another half, is back in action after a two-week lay-off.

Don Sahling, guard, should be cocked for peak performance after spending most of the season on the sidelines with a broken thumb. Fullback Larry Raper is completely recovered from his knee ailment, which cost the Knights a lot of ground yardage during his three weeks' absence.

The battle will probably shape into a "Luther by land-Wartburg by air" duel. Johansen has had his three quarterbacks, Marv Ott, Jack McClelland and Leroy Boseneiler, throwing all week, so there will undoubtedly be plenty of pigskins flying around overhead during the Wartburg attack. Coach Schweitzer's Norse, with the potent thrusts of Hustad and the sprinting speed of Allen Fedge, will probably fashion most of their offense on the terra firma.



MAKING FINAL appearances as Knight gridders today are Les Huth, Roger Klingman, Arnie Brandt, Ralph Wolken and Nelson Bose.

Picking Up Splinters

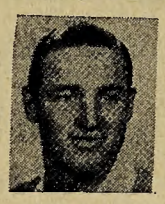
By Wilbur Flachman

One of the Knight coaching staff, ex-gridder Bob Keister, superstitiously points out that Wartburg losses this year have come to schools that hang to the west of the black and orange pennant in Knights Gym. Luther is to the west, along with Central, Simpson and Upper Iowa — only teams to beat the Jomen this season.

Only suggestion we have for the freshman mentor is that if Luther whips the Knights today, he should move the Wartburg banner completely to the far end before basketball season starts.

• • • •

Arnie Brandt, Knights' great lineman, has been elected Athlete-of-the-Month by the "W" Club, according to Nel Bose, president. Brandt received the same honor last March after winning his 42nd consecutive dual meet as a Knight wrestler. The former Waverly High grad is planning a coaching career. A senior, he is married and lives near Readlyn. One of the top defensive performers in the Iowa Conference, Arnie will bump heads with Luther's Brad Hustead this afternoon. It should be an interesting individual dual, because Hustead is one of the top rushing backs in the United States this season.



Brandt

Team enthusiasm is at a peak again this week, following the Simpson loss. The letdown last Saturday was a natural occurrence resulting from the disheartening 13-6 defeat at Central. We expect a bounce-back from the past two losses and will forecast a Knight victory today.

We'll even go so far as to predict the score just for fun. (Bravery comes near the end of battle.) Looking for the Knight offense to break loose with a potent passing attack and the top scoring effort of the season, we'll venture 26-20 — Knights.

Time for a plug. I am advertising a product that is for sale very cheap to Wartburg students. Odd thing about this deal is that this product already belongs to you Wartburgers. Merchandise involved is the Wartburg intramural program.

For only 25 cents students can enjoy the benefits of all 14 of the sports offered by the IM roster. Fred Jaspers, head of the IM committee, has put a lot of work into setting up a full program for your benefit. Bad weather and the flu bit a big hunk out of the activity this fall, but several contests are on tap for the near future.

A volleyball league will get under way soon followed by basketball. Here's your chance to help realize the goal of the IM's: "To provide good clean competition in recreation for you the Wartburg Students."

Ax Bundgaard, busy preparing his cagers for the approaching basketball season, took the day off Wednesday to speak at a father-son banquet at Owatonna, Minn. Versatile Dean of Students Earnie Oppermann took over the practice reins in Ax's absence.

Lose To Redmen In Home Finale

By Charles Maahs

With only 10 seconds remaining in the game, Simpson College scored a touchdown on a four-yard pass to change an apparent tie into the Knights' third loss of the season last Saturday at Schield Stadium.

It was a hard-fought contest with neither team showing a definite edge. Simpson used a driving, grinding, running game, to pile up extensive yardage, mostly up the middle of the line. Wartburg featured a superior passing attack but also a notable lack of the stingy defense that had been the best in the conference.

First Quarter Good

The Knights dominated the first quarter but could score only once. Quarterback Marv Ott tossed a pinpoint 25-yard pass to halfback Dave Jensen, who caught it in the end zone. Darwin Fritz converted for a 7-0 lead.

Simpson struck back in the second quarter. With a dark foreboding of things to come, Jack Repplinger ran 29 yards through the middle of Wartburg's line to score. Ralph Wolken blocked the extra point, and the Knights retained a slim 7-6 lead.

Wartburg Knights almost set up another score on the excellent passing of Ott, who was hitting Van Wyngarden and Fritz consistently. A reverse of a reverse by Jensen resulted in a 22-yard loss, and the half ended with the score unchanged.

Off For 70

Wartburg took the second-half kickoff and, mixing its attack, drove 70 yards for a touchdown. Nelson Bose carried for 13 yards. Ott found Fritz an ideal target, and they clicked for 42 yards on three passes. Key play was an 18-yard pass on a fourth and nine situation. Ott then meshed on a 9-yard quarterback option play.

Simpson immediately retaliated to tie the score at 13-13. As time ran out, despite some individual excellence in defense by Wartburg, Simpson's grinding attack found some gaping holes and one more touchdown. The extra point was a formality, and Wartburg suffered a 20-13 loss.

Ritchie's On Top As Carver's Fall

At the lanes this week it was Ritchie Pontiac taking over first place from Carver's. Ritchie's won three of four which put them in front of Carver's by one and one half games.

High game of 207 was rolled by Carl Austin with John Mehlhaus close behind with a 202. Mehlaus also carded the top series with a 537. Jim Boyenga and Mel Schlichting had a 529 for second high.

Liebau's had both high team series and game with a 2,174 and 785, respectively.

Faculty, Staff Continue Their Traveling Ways

Faculty and staff members continued their traveling ways as this week saw many either going or coming from meetings and conventions in the Midwest.

Miss Perna Lohn, Wartburg College librarian, attended a meeting of college lihrarians of the merging synods at Luther Theological Seminary, St. Paul, Minn., on Nov. 11.

Get Lutheran Series List

Main objective of the meeting was a duscussion of the record being compiled of what each college has in the way of Lutheran series and serials, such as Lutheran Standard, One Magazine, etc., and other items of historical interest in each synod. This record will be kept at Luther Seminary.

Colleges represented at the annual meeting were Dana College, Blair, Neb. (UELC); St. Olaf College, Northfield, Minn. (ELC); Concordia College, Moorhead, Minn. (ELC); Augustana College, Sioux Falls, S.D. (ELC); Luther Seminary (ELC) and Wartburg College.

Dr. John Hiltner of Wartburg's Latin and Philosophy Departments attended a meeting of the ALC Board of Parish Education held in Chicago, Ill., on Nov. 11. The set-up of parish education in the newly merged church was discussed.

Sem, College Convene

Faculties of Wartburg Seminary, Duhuque and Warthurg College held their annual meeting yesterday afternoon here. Semin-ary entrance requirements was the topic discussed.

Admissions Director Fred Thompson faces a busy week on the road as he represents Wartburg at high school college days. He has already made 12 such visits this year.

His week's itinerary is Monday, Worthington, Minn.; Tuesday, Ottumwa; Wednesday, Newton and Marshalltown; Thursday, Ames and Nevada; and Friday, Grundy Center.

6 To Iowa City LSA Conference

Six members of the Wartburg Lutheran Student Association are attending the Iowa Regional LSA Fall Conference on the State University of Iowa campus, Iowa City, this weekend.

Symphony To Feature 'Mot Ballade' Tomorrow

Highlighting tomorrow evening's Wartburg Community Symphony concert will be the American premiere of "Mot Ballade" by the contemporary Norwegian composer Eiviad Groven.

Ernest Hagen of the Wartburg Music Department will direct the presentation which will be sung by the Castle Singers.

Hagen

The 60-piece community orchestra will continue the program with works of two contemporary American composers. Roy Harris' "Ode to Consonance" and "Hymn" will be played, followed by "Fuguing Tunes," written by Henry Cowell.

Beethoven's "Egmont Overture" will be played by the group, after which two string works by 19th Century Norwegian composer Ole Bull will be presented.

Charles Tweed, 11-year-old pianist from Toledo, will continue with Hayden's "Kinder Concerto." The young musician will dedicate a special number, "Sleighride," to the grade school children of Waverly who helped with publicity for the symphony by making posters.

Wartburg students and Waverly citizens are invited to attend this evening of music. The production will last about one hour and a half, according to Director Hagen. No admission will he charged for the symphony, which is opening its sixth concert season at Wartburg.
